Embedding Outdoor Learning Across Your School

Designed for schools looking to establish a sustainable, whole-school approach to curriculum outdoor learning.

During this practical session, your staff will explore:

- Identify and overcome the barriers to outdoor learning that are specific to your school
- Experience engaging outdoor maths activities, including counting games, starters and activities suitable across the primary age range
- Explore practical English, spelling and science activities that bring learning to life outdoors
- Discover versatile activities that can be adapted across multiple curriculum subjects and year groups
- Experience practical PSHE activities that promote collaboration, communication and wellbeing
- Learn behaviour-for-learning strategies through effective boundary games and routines
- Understand the research behind outdoor learning and the impact it can have on engagement, behaviour, attainment and wellbeing

Continued . . .

- Develop confidence in using risk-benefit assessments to facilitate safe and meaningful outdoor learning experiences
- Explore our Outdoor Teacher Toolkit, simple, practical resources to support long-term implementation
- Take part in team-building activities that demonstrate the power of collaboration through outdoor learning
- Work together to establish a clear whole-school vision for outdoor learning, linked to your school's values, curriculum priorities and desired outcomes

Apply everything they've learned by designing their own curriculum-linked outdoor lesson, with personalised feedback and guidance from our trainers to support confident implementation back in school.
